

ONLY A HOAX

To Entice Kuropatkin to Fight

NAVAL ACTION AT PORT ARTHUR

Correspondents at Last Hear of the Disaster

CHINESE EMPEROR REPORTED ILL.

Pekin, July 15th.—The report that the Emperor of China is seriously ill with dysentery is not confirmed here.

THINK IT EXAGGERATED.

Pekin, July 15th.—The report of the Japanese reverse at Port Arthur is not confirmed here. It is considered in official circles that it is probable heavy fighting has occurred, but the immense loss of twenty eight thousand men reported is regarded in all quarters as much exaggerated.

MUKDEN HAS THE BOMB.

Mukden, Thursday, July 14th.—Delayed in transmission.—In the fighting at the right flank of the line of defenses of Port Arthur on July 13rd to July 15th, the Russians drove back the Japanese and occupied the east bank of the lake of the Lunsin Pass. The Japanese losses were about 21,000. Those of the Russians were insignificant.

ONLY PART OF THE GAME.

St. Petersburg, July 15th.—It appears now that the despatch reporting the loss of 30,000 Japanese was a miserable hoax of the Japanese themselves, suggested in order to mislead Gen. Kuropatkin and to cause him to advance. He consequently telegraphed how mortified and disgusted he felt, and has no likeness to make matters worse. According to the latest despatches General Oku is seriously threatening New Chwang with a large force while Field Marshal Oyama has taken the direction of the fighting forces at Port Arthur.

The best ship in the Russian navy in the Far East, the Novik, is damaged. It is now believed that the rainy season as a deterrent of active operations is going to be disregarded by the Japanese.

THE REPORT DISCREDITED.

London, July 16th.—The Tokyo correspondent of the Times in a despatch filed at 9:45 p.m. July 15th, says that the St. Petersburg story of a Japanese repulse with heavy casualties at Port Arthur on July 10th, is wholly discredited at Tokyo, where no such reports have been received. It is believed that the story originated in Shanghai.

"CONSIDERABLE LOSSES."

London, July 16th.—A despatch to a news agency from St. Petersburg, says: "The war office announced the receipt of a despatch from Port Arthur containing the report that the Japanese sustained considerable losses on July 11th, the exact particulars of which have not yet been ascertained." According to the despatch the Russians re-captured all the positions lately taken by the Japanese.

NAVAL ENGAGEMENT.

London, July 16th.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Morning Post, cabling under date of July 15th, says: "A naval engagement took place today off Port Arthur." The correspondent says that the Chicago Daily News despatch about Pawan has been seized by the Russians and towed into Port Arthur.

ALEXEIEFF IS KINGLY.

Berlin, July 15th.—A despatch to the Lokal Anzeiger from New Chwang dated July 11th, describes the friction between Gen. Kuropatkin and Viceroy Alexeiff, which in connection with the correspondent's recent interview with General Kuropatkin indicates that the present despatch was based on the information from near the Russian headquarters. The correspondent says Viceroy Alexeiff continually disturbs military matters by assuming a kingly air.

HOTEL MAN FOUND DEAD

Robert Nivins Proprietor of the new Imperial Hotel Found in an out House with a Gun-Shot Wound in the Breast

R. Nivins, proprietor of the new Imperial hotel was found dead this afternoon in a small building in the rear of the hotel with a gaping hole in his breast, caused apparently by the discharge of a shotgun which was still leaning against his breast. The body was lying across some boxes with the head slightly elevated against the wall, the hat on and every appearance of having been in that position when death came suddenly.

Mr. and Mrs. Nivins and their family, consisting of three children, came here a few months since from Glenboro, Manitoba. Mr. Nivins purchased the lot at the corner of 1st street and Queens avenue and during the summer has had a large frame three storey building erected there, to be used as a hotel. The building was completed only a few days since and was being arranged for occupation.

This forenoon Mr. Nivins went out and did not return at noon. As it was thought he had gone for a drive no special notice was taken of his absence until a gentleman who was stopping at the hotel happened to pass the windows of a small building in the rear used as a store house, was horrified to see the body of the missing man lying inside.

The alarm was at once given and the police and Coroner Bradenwaite were quickly on the spot.

The body was found as described, the charge from the gun having penetrated the heart. From the appearance the doctors concluded he had been dead two or three hours.

The coroner decided that an inquest was unnecessary, the circumstances pointing clearly to suicide.

Shorthorn Breeders' Association

From the Farmers' Advocate.

On more than one occasion attention has been called to the provincialism apparent in the above association, which, unless corrected, bids fair to alienate Western breeders and their sympathetic co-operation. The suggestion has, indeed, been made by a leading Manitoba breeder that a new set of records for Shorthorns be started at Winnipeg. We believe that Shorthorn interests will be better served by one strong association, thoroughly national in its character and aims. In the best interests of this great breed, very careful consideration should be given to the western situation, so that unanimity and solidarity will prevail. The association, in the opinion of the west, needs new blood and more up-to-date methods.

First, we would suggest that the annual report and financial statement should be fuller and more explicit, and should be bound with or printed in the herdbooks each year. Then the question might be asked, is it businesslike to allow officials in a concern of the financial standing of the D. S. H. B. A. to collect an elastic (or commission) salary, instead of a stated amount? Salaried officials who have to handle the Association's moneys should be under bonds. The question also arises, why did the Association take $500 worth of shares in an alien exhibition (Chicago) association? That association having since adopted a rule that all exhibitors there must become members at $10 each, $500 is a pretty expensive price for the D. S. H. B. A. to pay to placate the Chicago people, and it only affects about thirty Ontario breeders at the outside.

The advertising by the association in the Northwest is a sore point with western men who bought their stock from Eastern men, and have been subjected to competition as a result of the use of funds partly contributed by themselves, but allotted for such purposes by eastern men. This was done in this way: $100 was contributed to the Dominion Cattle Breeders' Association towards the wages of a man for the government car, and $300 to advertising in the Northwest. Is this fair? The Western members have been unable hitherto to effectually represent the west, through being insufficiently represented on the directorate. In 1903, out of fifteen directors, all but one (a Manitoba man) were from Ontario, and in 1904 all but two (Manitoba men) are from Ontario, and the executive and finance committee, numbering five, in each year, is composed entirely of Ontario men. Two Territorial men and one Manitoba man figure among the vice-presidents.

The expenditure for binding and printing herdbooks in 1903 was $5,054.20—a very large sum, and if $1,383.25 of this was for bidding extra copies of back volumes, printed, but held in stock unbound, it should be clearly stated. By the adoption of a system similar to the American Aberdeen-Angus and Hereford Associations, a less bulky herdbook could be got out for less money annually, and the money saved could well be used to push the breed at the shows, and the breeders' shelves would not be filled up so quickly.

The penalty for non-recording previous to twenty-four months old is not severe enough. It is only 25c a head to members. It might well be total exclusion from the herdbook. The rules say, "duplicate certificates may be issued, etc." If any such are, they should be stamped duplicate, and only issued on a declaration by the owners that the real certificate had been destroyed. All transfers of ownership should be marked on the back of the original certificate by the secretary of the Association.

The herdbook could be improved by abbreviating the pedigrees a very great deal, by giving only the sire and dam names and numbers. Females might all be numbered when recorded. This is done in the Aberdeen-Angus Record and the American Hereford Record, in the latter of which is recorded in their last volume about double the number of animals recorded in the last volume of the D. S. H. B. A., and the White-faces book is far less bulky than the D. S. H. volume.

The literature of the association (D. S. H. B. A.) states that if the females were numbered when sent in, confusion would result—a statement hard to credit in view of what is done by the Associations quoted above. Nowadays, numbering is largely used as simplifying and systemizing business records. The association might well indicate that all moneys should be sent by registered mail, postal money orders, or express orders. Losses of money gone astray could then be traced.

We are sure that the association would receive heartier support if at least one-third of the directorate was distributed so that all the provinces would have equitable representation on some mutually satisfactory basis, and out of the five members of the finance and executive committee there should be one or two from the west and one from the extreme east. In this way the association will keep in touch with the needs of the breed throughout Canada and avoid the appearance of localism.

Clever Smugglers

Behind the arrest of a wireless telegraph operator and a hospital steward employed on one of the largest trans-Atlantic liners, charged with smuggling Sumatra tobacco, the New York customs officials claim to have unearthed a new and ingenious method of smuggling diamonds, silk, tobacco and other merchandise which should pay a high duty.

Franklin on the government of enormous proportions are believed to have been perpetrated by this method. Its successful conduct required a combination of express men, steamship employees and possibly government officials. Its beneficiaries and possibly its promoters are believed to be merchants of the city, some of them men of wealth and prominence. Smuggling in trunks carried as passengers' baggage upon which labels indicating that they had been properly examined and passed by the inspectors which were surreptitiously passed is the method. In addition to the persons mentioned two others have been arrested, and a large force of special treasury agents is at work seeking other persons suspected of participation in the frauds.

On arrival at New York the confederates of the smugglers on board the ship passed upon the trunk of the smugglers the special label indicating that an inspector had examined the contents of the trunk and found nothing dutiable therein. When the customs officials came across the trunk with such a label on, it they passed on. The trunk was then carried to the pier and passed into the hands of its owners. How the smugglers got the labels is unknown.

In a single trunk passed by the duplicate label system a smuggler might bring into America enough diamonds to make him independently wealthy. How far the ramifications and the extent of this new scheme have gone has not yet been determined.

The exposure was premature and was practically forced upon the customs men, who were working and waiting for bigger game. They were compelled to take action through the wrong address placed upon a trunk, found later to contain leaf tobacco intended for a manufacturer of cigars in Brooklyn. The duty on the leaf of which there was 65 pounds, is $4 a pound. Two other trunks which came by the same steamer were found to contain 187 pounds of Sumatra leaf. One of the prisoners is said to have revealed the secrets of the band.

Lessons in Expenditure

Masque Advance:

Any person who has any doubt about the expenditure of the Dominion at the present time would do well to study the following table:

In 1894 the expenditure was 108 per cent of the revenue.

In 1895 the expenditure was 112 per cent of the revenue.

In 1896 the expenditure was 102 per cent of the receipts.

In 1901 the expenditure was 87 per cent of the receipts.

In 1902 the expenditure was 87 per cent of the receipts.

In 1903 the expenditure was 78 per cent of the receipts.

In the year ending June 30, it is estimated that the expenditure will be 76 per cent of the receipts.

This is a lesson in expenditure.

AN IMPORTANT VENTURE

The announcement which appeared in the Bulletin yesterday that the Northwest Gas and Oil Company are arranging to begin boring operations as soon as possible and are prepared to expend whatever amount is found necessary to ascertain whether either gas or oil exist in Northern Alberta, was welcome news to the citizens and many have been the expressions of good wishes to the company.

While the Gas and Oil Company was not organized as a philanthropic or a public institution, the work which they propose to undertake is one in which people generally will be vitally interested, and which will be watched with more than usual concern.

The histories of the districts in other parts of Canada and in the United States which have been fortunate in finding reservoirs of either of these commodities stored away in the earth, are too generally known to make necessary any lengthy essays on what it means to a town to "strike oil" or gas in its neighborhood. Besides their illuminating qualities both substances are coming continually into more general use as fuel for domestic and manufacturing purposes. The town of Medicine Hat is at present rejoicing greatly over the opening of another gas "gusher" and the people of the southern town are counting on their city becoming, by reason of the cheap fuel thus afforded, one of the manufacturing centres of the West. While Edmonton is fortunate in being built over an inexhaustible coal mine, the discovery of oil or gas in the vicinity would add one more to the long list of valuable resources of the district, and give another impetus to the town and country.

THE BRITISH IN TIBET

Under this caption Prince Oukhtomsky, editor of the "Edmonton St. Petersburg," contributes an article to the current number of the North American Review, the purpose of which is apparently to set forth to the American public the views of Russia on the British expedition to the land of the Dalai-Lama. As might be expected the article is of a complexion not calculated to please or mollify the British reader and appearing in the publication mentioned it may be fairly considered as an attempt to arouse a feeling of suspicion in the United States concerning British motives in Asia, which would in a measure temper the friendly feelings of Americans toward the ally of Britain and the enemy of Russia in the East.

Upon the basis of this intention the writer has built up an ingenious and temporarily worded article well calculated to appeal to the reason of the American reader while not openly asking for his sympathy.

The paper begins with a covert admission:

"We Russians are late! The English are ready to stretch forth the hand of power to the realm of the Dalai-Lama."

For what is Russia late, unless the meaning of the writer is that Britain and Russia have been running for the same goal and Britain has reached it first? Such being admitted it is not clear why the defeated contestant should have cause of complaint.

Then the Prince turns to history and with his remarks in this connection few Britons will find cause for difference. He says:

"As early as 1816, the English planted their Resident in Kathmandu, the capital of Nepal. The Orientalist Bryan Hodgson, gained undying glory by his observations of commercial conditions in Central Asia, and his study of local life and religion through intercourse with the natives; he was the first to discover among the Himalayans the literary monuments of Buddhism in the Sanskrit language, copies of which he supplied to the learned societies of London and Paris. Entering into correspondence with the Dalai-Lama, the English Resident received from him the books and papers left by a former Chinese Mission, as well as a full collection of the most sacred Tibetan writings.

"Wishing to gain a firm foothold near the religious centres of Tibet, the British Government, shortly after 1840, decided to build an important outpost at Darjeeling, in the territory of the weak Sikkim Raja, which was considered to be only a few days' journey from Tezpur-Lumpo. In 1855 this place was ceded to the English, who undertook to pay a certain fixed amount yearly for it. Dr. Campbell was instructed to take measures for the development of Darjeeling. From 1840 to 1862 he watched over this district, which was important from a sanitary, commercial and political point of view alike. A variegated population streamed thither from the hills; thousands of people settled there. Tea gardens were planted, a market for the Trans-Himalayan tribes was opened. The English had already gained control of the people of Sikkim at a favorable juncture, and had bought them over to their interests. The importance of Darjeeling was immensely increased when the railroad reaching it with Calcutta was built. Little by little, the Europeans became acquainted with the character of the borderland between India and Tibet. Engineers made and maintained a good road to the mountains, and noted the Jelep Pass, which leads to the Chumbi Valley, as the most convenient road. By a treaty with the Raja, the Calcutta Government has the right to expel from Sikkim all disaffected inhabitants. The native prince has already visited Darjeeling to become acquainted with European habits."

And very true. But where is ground for condemnation in the fact that British forces and British policy fore-reached the duller perception and slower movements of Russia?

The Prince next turns his attention to the present and says:

"The British Government is not advancing into Tibet alone. The British missionaries are acting in perfect accord with it. While Russia does not accomplish what might be wished, even in the outlying parts where Russian rule is mixed with the native races, the West has sent the pioneers of Christian culture into the heart of Asia. The Moravian Brothers who formerly lived in Transbaikalia seeking to convert the Kalmycks, and whom the Russians expelled, have found a warm welcome in India, settling in the Himalayas. They have not only penetrated Lumbini, but have perfectly mastered the Tibetan language. The Calcutta Government has taken advantage of this to publish an excellent dictionary and grammar, compiled by Jacobson, one of the missionaries. The Holy Scriptures in the Mongolian language are translated by the English amongst the nomads. The natives who are free from fanaticism willingly buy them. Not long ago, a zealous worker along these lines, G. M. Steyer by name, traversed the Buddhist steps to the region beyond Lake Baikal, to build a monument to certain English missionaries who had worked for thirty years amongst the Buryats. The English propagandists are allowed to attempt to establish the influence of the Vatican in Mongolia. Catholic missionaries are directing their efforts towards Tibet from two sides, and have already had martyrs in this sufficiently thankless task. They come first from the eastern frontier, through China, and secondly from Sikkim.

"In the wilderness, the Catholic missionaries work exactly as did the ever-memorable apostle of Siberia, the Metropolitan Innocent; they occupy themselves with the civilization of the natives, bring the surrounding regions into a flourishing condition and enter into friendly relations with the pagans. Understanding that Buddhism is a religion of the thoughtful, not of the ignorant, and consequently contains absolutely no democratic elements, the preachers from the West buy slaves, gather round them the downtrodden and educate children. From the moment when the pagans see the principles of the New Testament put into practice (so far as this is possible for feeble mortals), a reverence for the powers of Christian civilization must grow and increase. Though the missionaries regard Lamaism with certain easily understood prejudices, and have even suffered some persecution, yet they ultimately come to respect the religious toleration of the Buddhist priesthood and the kindness of the simple monks, and 'twice born,' and they have more than once been indebted to their rivals, the Lamas, for assistance.

"It is important to notice that England has always come to the help of the missionaries in Tibet. When they have been oppressed, word has found its way to Calcutta through the Nepalese. In Tezpur-Lumpo and Lhasa the people are greatly afraid of the natives of Nepal, and are willing to pay dearly to avoid a contest of arms with the terrible Gorkhas. The English have long understood this peculiarity, and artfully take advantage of it.

This is also true in the main. But is Britain to be suspected because her missionaries are heroic? Or is she to be condemned for protecting her children from unjust oppression? Possibly so, but not according to the standard of judgment obtaining outside the realms of the East.

But where the Prince falls down is when he leaves history and description and ventures in the field of argument. His concluding paragraphs reveal the purpose and present the argument of his article:

"They have sent Hindoos to interfere with Asia to explore, paying them well for their information. Russia has far larger numbers of people adapted for relations with Tibet, and even now many Buryats live there without breaking their relations with their native land (in Russian Siberia). But Russia has been indifferent to this. For two centuries our native races have had an opportunity of proving themselves excellent and faithful subjects. Among them are found many, to a large extent Russified, who are fully qualified and well suited to represent us. In it not time for Russia at last to take advantage of this circumstance? Is it possible that the first educated Russian traveler will reach Lhasa through Darjeeling, under the protection and by the permission of the English Government?"

"What is the chief danger of the movement of the English armies to 'the land of the Lamas'?" The Tibet.

MAKING BRICK

P. ANDERSON & CO'S YARD

A Busy Spot Across the River Where Building Material is Turned out

These are busy days in the flats across the river at P. Anderson & Co.'s brickyard. The fine weather which has prevailed has been in marked contrast to the rainy conditions of the past several seasons and has enabled the yard to be run at full capacity during almost the entire time. At present a staff of about thirty men are employed and both the pressed and ordinary styles of brick are being turned out as fast as possible to supply the demand created by the many large blocks in course of erection.

There are at present in the yards about 500,000 green bricks of the ordinary kind while a kiln of 500,000 is being burned. This is believed to be the largest kiln ever burned west of Winnipeg.

There is also a kiln of pressed brick being fired and another is being made. THE YARDS AND PLANT.

The yards comprise several acres of land on the flats south of the river just east of the B. Y. & P. tracks, being thus conveniently located for both local and export demand and in anticipation of the market which will be developed when the town and district become more advanced to transportation facilities are extended. They have now drying sheds capable of accommodating several hundred thousand bricks, down draft kilns for burning pressed brick, a large drying house for drying the brick in wet or cold weather, beside the large manufacturing building which contains the machines and power plant. The machinery is run by a 120 horse power engine.

MAKING COMMON BRICK. The process of manufacture begins in a clay bank a short distance in the rear of the machines. Here a staff of men are employed with horses and carts. The carts are driven onto a bridge having a trap door through which the dirt is dumped into cars below. These are hauled up an incline by a wire cable coiled by steam power on a drum.

The machine leads to the mixing machine. This machine is a hollow cylinder inside of which, revolving in opposite directions on the axis are sets of inclined blades not unlike those of a propeller. The purpose of this machine is to thoroughly pulverize the earth and to mix it with water which is injected into the cylinder into a slanted mud. This is forced by means of a revolving auger shaped device through a hole the dimensions of which correspond to the length and breadth of a brick. This produces a long bar of clay which, sliding onto a smooth platform, is cut into bricks by means of a series of wires arranged on a frame operated by a lever. Each cut turns out ten finished bricks.

These are piled on barrows and are wheeled to the drying sheds which are tightly roofed to keep out the rain and provided with side curtains to prevent the wind checking the "green" bricks. They are left here about a week and then piled in bins and burned when they are ready for market.

By changing the incline on the machine the size of the brick can be made.

HOW PRESSED BRICK ARE MADE. The pressed brick which are used for facing and trimming buildings are made by a different process.

The earth for this purpose is required dry and during wet seasons it is sometimes found necessary to run it dry through the common brick machine to remove the water by pressure.

The earth is thrown into a hopper where it is ground as fine as flour. It is then carried up an elevator and deposited in a hopper leading to the press.

This is a mammoth machine in the bed of which are moulds - four in number each the length and width of a brick. Above these are four plungers fitting the moulds to a hair's breadth. The plungers are attached by means of a toggle-joint to a huge lever operated by a large revolving cog-wheel. When the plungers are raised the ends of the hopper are cleared and the earth flows into the moulds. When the wheel revolves the lever ascends, straightening the joint and bringing a pressure of 10,000 lbs. per square inch on the earth in the moulds.

The bricks are discharged from the moulds automatically and are wheeled directly to the kilns where they are burned.

THE DOWN DRAFT KILNS. The kilns in which the pressed bricks are burned are down draft kilns, circular in shape and contain each a row of furnaces around the wall where slow fires are kept burning for several days. These kilns are not destroyed after each burning as are those composed of common brick, but are permanent structures.

THE DRY HOUSE.

The large dry house of which mention has been already made was erected last year to enable the drying process to be continued in cold and wet weather.

The exhaust steam from the engine is conducted through this building by scores of pipes and provides the required heat.

The condensed steam then returns to a reservoir whence it is pumped while warm into the boiler, thus effecting a considerable saving of fuel.

This is probably the first application in this district of the principle of condensing and re-using the exhaust steam.

REGINA BANKS BROKEN INTO

Daily Standard: Rumors were rife in the city yesterday that two of our leading banks had been broken into and robbed on Sunday. On applying to the officials of the Bank of Montreal and the Imperial Bank, we were informed that a man had been seen hanging around the windows, but that when seen by the janitor he had decamped. They scouted the idea of robbery, however, and were of the opinion that the man seen was merely a loiterer. At the Imperial Bank things were taken more seriously. They were very reticent about saying anything for publication, as they thought the interests of justice would be best served by saying nothing about the matter. They admitted, however, that an attempt had been made on the bank, and that some of the windows had been broken to obtain entrance. The police are on the track of the guilty party and it is expected that he will soon be run to earth. Nothing was taken from either of the banks.

These robberies and attempt at robbery are becoming altogether too frequent in Regina, and the sooner the police, by prompt and energetic action put a stop to them the better for all concerned. There is a bad gang of toughs and rascals around just now and Sgt. Wickham is doing his best to rid the city of them by sending them down for vagrancy or making them leave the city. In this good work it is hoped he will have the support of the local police and authorities.

TEACHERS ENGAGED

An adjourned meeting of the school board was held in the office of the secretary yesterday.

Architect Johnston reported on the new fence around the Queens avenue school.

J. A. Calder, deputy commissioner of education, wrote, notifying the board that they were authorized to borrow the required amount for the new building by issuing debentures.

Principal Rea sent in reports for the past term.

Chairman Taylor and A. B. Cushing were appointed a committee to make up an estimate of the amount required from the town for the coming year.

The following accounts were referred to the finance committee, to be paid if found correct:

K. W. MacKenzie, $10.
K. W. MacKenzie, $52.77.
I. S. Cowan, $6.
Electric light, $2.10.
Pay sheet, $124.74.
J. Hillman, $15.

It was decided to let the contracts for plumbing and heating the new school separate from the building contract.

Miss Campbell and Miss McKinnon were engaged to fill vacancies on the teaching staff of the school.

OATS FOR BATTLEFORD

Revillon Freres' second shipment of oats to the C.N.R. construction camp at Battleford was expected to get away this afternoon. The scows, which are seventeen in number, have been built on the south side of the river and during the week have been loaded near the old ferry landing. They carry fourteen thousand bushels of oats for the horses used in grading and construction work on the line.

FINAL DECISION DEFERRED

The council met in the chamber yesterday afternoon to confer with the special committee of the Board of Trade regarding a grant to the Western Canada Immigration Association. The question was discussed at considerable length and final action deferred until the regular meeting on Tuesday evening.

Councillor Cushing was authorized to sign cheques for the town in the absence of Mayor Short.

RESULTS IN FATALITY

The Village of Russell Excited over What may be Found a Murder

Ottawa, July 16.—The village of Russell is greatly worked up over a fatality which occurred Wednesday which has all the appearances of foul play and which may lead to the arrest of certain young men of the village on the charge of murder.

Henry Anzer, a stableman at the Cecil hotel, was found dead in a room in the Russell hotel, with his face broken in and his head otherwise badly battered. It seems that he had been in a drunken melee with several young men of the village and it is alleged that during it he received the blow which resulted in his death. An inquest is in progress.

FIRST LACROSSE MATCH

The Local team got away with Strathcona last Night

Five hundred people turned out to the Hudson's Bay grounds last night to witness the first lacrosse game of the season between Strathcona and Edmonton teams.

The event was advertised as a lacrosse game and possibly it was such, but it bore certain strong resemblances to a forty minute skirmish with lacrosse sticks.

The game was announced to begin at 6.30, but Strathcona failed to appear until 8 o'clock. Owing to the late hour it was impossible to complete the performance and only two rounds were put on.

The excitement began early in the game and continued through the first half with an average of a scrap once every five minutes. In the intervals between the ructions Strathcona found occasion to score two goals, the Edmonton's failing to get any to their credit.

In the second half things settled down somewhat and the combats grew less frequent. This left more time and attention for lacrosse and Ed-

Son of Hon Clifford Sifton Shot in the Arm While Taking a Gun Apart

Brookville, July 16th.—Harry Sifton, the 14-year-old son of Hon. Clifford Sifton, was brought to the general hospital this evening with a wound on the right arm just above the elbow, the result of the careless handling of a Winchester rifle of small calibre. The lad with two other brothers, went into the woods for a hunt near their father's summer home, "Assiniboia Lodge," on the St. Lawrence, nine miles from Brookville. They undertook to disassemble the mechanism of the firearm when the cartridge unexpectedly exploded, the ball passing through the fleshy portion of the arm.

Edmonton marked up four, Strathcona adding another to the two obtained in the first half.

The game closed with the score 4 to 3 in Edmonton's favor.

The teams lined up as follows:

CORRECTING THE TIME

Every forenoon shortly before ten o'clock the local telegraph office corrects their chronometers. At the same instant in towns throughout the length and breadth of Canada the same may be seen. Something of this way the correct time is ascertained and communicated across the continent daily may be learned from the following note from W. J. Camp, electrician of the company at Vancouver, written in reply to an enquiry:

Time Service.—The C.P.R. has a special circuit at Montreal connected with a clock in McGill Observatory. Signals are continuously sent over this circuit by the clock. As the clock arrangement was not originally designed for transmitting the signals over long distances, the signals are transmitted by hand from our main office in Montreal, the operator standing beside an electrical instrument on the clock circuit, so that the signals are practically instantaneous with those received from the clock. These signals are received direct at Vancouver and Victoria through automatic repeaters at Fort William, Winnipeg and Swift Current. The time occupied in passing through each repeater is about 1-100 of a second, and the time occupied on the wire itself is less than 2-100 of a second per thousand miles. This would make the actual time consumed between Montreal and Vancouver about 15-100 of a second. At Montreal, twice terminates, over which signals are sent direct from the clock at Washington, D.C. We very frequently compare signals we receive over this circuit with those received from McGill College, and are able therefore to check up any variation in the McGill clock. As a general thing the signals from Washington are slightly behind McGill, owing to the distance between Washington and Montreal. During the last five years there has been practically only about six occasions on which there was a difference between the two clocks of over one second, but on checking up it has generally been found that the Washington clock was in error. The one transmission from Montreal reaches every telegraph office on the C.P.R. system, extending from Louisburg, Cape Breton, to Bamfield, B. C. It is automatically repeated at Canby, Nova Scotia, to the Azores Island, in the Atlantic, and by hand at Halifax, Nova Scotia, to Bermuda and Jamaica. These two islands use the "C.P.R." time as it is the most nearly correct they can obtain. The islands in the Pacific, where the Australia cable lands, also use our time. The British war vessels correct their chronometers at Halifax and Victoria, frequently with signals exchanged with McGill, and the German fleet also does the same at the Azores. On these occasions we first obtain the variations of the McGill clock so as to give time true to a very small fraction of a second. This is done because no clock is perfect.

THE BRITISH IN THIBET

an, monasteries are exceedingly rich and form real treasure-houses of ancient culture; they contain religious objects of the highest artistic value, and the rarest literary treasures. If the Sengye reach Teshu-Lunpo and Lhasa, with their fanatical passion for loot, which was so signally exhibited in the recent Boxer campaign, it is beyond all doubt that the most precious treasures on the altar and in the libraries of the Lamas will be in danger. It is impossible even to tell approximately how great an injury may thus be caused to Orientalism, now the solution of many scientific problems may be put off, problems which are closely bound up with the gradual revelation of the secrets of Tibet. The vandalism which was a disgrace to Lhasa, when Peking was recently sacked and looted, will pale before what the English will probably do by the hands of their dusky mercenaries. The temptation will be too great. Only zealous students of this particular department of knowledge could have everything which is rare and worthy of special attention.

Therefore, we face the critical moment, when the best monuments, the last fragments of ancient Buddhist creative genius are in danger of falling into the gulf of oblivion. What even the heroes of Genghis Khan, guarded and reverently preserved will be trampled under foot by the invading "Pax Britannica." Russia has been too late, with her obscurely felt inclination to enter into closer relations with the realm of the Dalai-Lama. Russia, which had every reason to be the first in the field, thanks to its Buddhist monks and Kalmucks, thanks to its students of Mongolia and its Central-Asian travelers; Russia, which possesses such well-known students of Buddhism as Oldenburg, such world-famous ethnographers as Clements, will now receive from the hands of strangers, the most important facts concerning Tibet, which is bound to Russia by so many ties. But there remains the distant hope that the free spirit of the great Reincarnating Lamas, will, under pressure of the political domination of England, sooner or later take a new direction, seeking for itself a fit terrestrial embodiment, and that some fine day we shall see the Dalai-Lama and the Ganden-Pogdun incarnated within the sphere of Russian influence. England may gain territorial control of the Tibetan world, but to win it permanently and to bring it closer to them will be given only to those who will make a destroying hand against the thrones of Dalai-lam.

The fear of the "Pax Britannica" appears to be that the "terrible Georgians" will break loose and loot the temples of Buddhism, destroying the remaining fragmentary monuments of Buddhist creative genius. But what evidence has the writer that the Sengye will run riot despite their efforts and plunge the Lamas into anarchy? It may be recalled that when Col. Younghusband in command of the present expedition to Tibet, found a road barred by forts manned by armed and hostile Tibetans, he, wishing to avoid bloodshed, the Sengye in obedience to orders charges over the breastworks of the enemy with unflinching and valiant courage in the attack. The soldiers who did this are not likely to break the restraints of discipline, to loot the temples for treasures which they would be forced to restore.

As to the hope of the Prince that Britain could not succeed in governing the Tibetans after conquering them, it should be sufficient to point to the history of India, where for centuries a handful of Britons have held an empire of 80,000,000 souls separated into a thousand nations and tribes and castes and dialects and in doing so have lost fewer men than have perished in the mines of Siberia for holding the principles of political liberty.

Foundress of the Faithful Companions Contributed.

An interesting if not unique, ceremony took place at Upton Hall, Birkenhead, on Tuesday, June 14th, when on the evening of that day, the body of the late foundress of the Order of the Faithful Companions of Jesus arrived from France for burial in the private cemetery of this convent. It will be remembered that some ten years ago the process of her beatification was opened in the archdiocese of Paris, and a supplementary process was opened in this country in the diocese of Shrewsbury in which the Right Rev. Bishop Knight, D.D., was appointed judge by the Ecclesiastical Court of Paris, Rev. Wilfrid Dallow being made "Postulator of the cause," on behalf of the Order in Great Britain.

When, as in this special case, the body of a person (whose Cause of Beatification has begun) has to be exhumed and transferred from one grave to another, certain solemn rites have to be observed on such an occasion. Accordingly, the body was taken up from its first resting place at Gentilly, near Paris, and the leaden coffin was placed in a new outer one of oak, around and across which white ribbons were passed and duly sealed by the Bishop, who acted for the Cardinal Archbishop of Paris. Accompanied by a French lady (a friend of the family to which the deceased foundress belonged), and by the chaplain of the convent in Paris, Pere Ladislaus, the body was transported from Paris to England, and arrived safely at Woodside Station, Birkenhead, carefully packed in a large wooden case. Here it was met by Mr. Abercromby, solicitor, and Mr. Joseph Maguire, undertaker, who had made all arrangements for conveying it to Upton Hall. The cortege arrived at Upton Convent cemetery at 5.30 p.m., where it was received by the Very Rev. Canon Dallow, assisted by the Very Rev. Canon O'Toole, D.D., and the Rev. Charles Fisher, the acolytes attending with cross and lighted candles, incense and holy water. A large number of nuns (over a hundred) including the Superiors of many convents of the Order, were gathered around the cemetery gates to assist at a function which was for them one of absorbing interest, namely the reception of the remains of their holy foundress, Mary Magdalene Victoire, Domnuit d'Houet, (nee de Bengy) who had been dead nearly half a century.

The packing case having been carefully removed by the carpenters in attendance, there was disclosed to view a plain, unpolished oak coffin, without the slightest ornament, as was becoming the religious vow of poverty, with black iron handles at the sides. The body contained in an inner leaden coffin, was now duly handed over to the clergy, who, following the rules laid down, carefully verified as sound and unbroken, the various bands and red Episcopal seals, as also sundry black veils placed therein by the civil authorities of the city of Paris. According to prescribed rule, the ecclesiastical notary, Canon O'Toole, now read up an official sentence of excommunication against any person who should carry away as relics any fragments of the coffin. This is a strict law of the church styled "non-cultus," since if any unauthorized honor is shown to the deceased before Rome has spoken, it would impair, if not destroy all hopes of Beatification.

The body was then placed in the special brick grave built to receive it with all due prayers prescribed by the ritual.

At 8 p.m. an ecclesiastical court was solemnly opened in a room of the convent (under order from the Archbishop of Paris), in which Canon Dallow sat as "Judec," and Canon O'Toole, as "Notary," drew up a "process-verbal" of the whole proceedings. The "Judec" having received an oath on the Gospels from the French lady who had accompanied the body, she then gave her evidence as to the exhumation, the bringing of it from Paris to Birkenhead, giving all the stages of transit, showing all receipts given by civil authorities, the letter of the English Consul, Paris, etc. So carefully had the document to be drawn up for conveyance to Paris, that the whole session did not end until one o'clock in the morning.

The following document was placed in a bottle and buried with the coffin:

Corpus Mariæ Magdalænæ Victoriæ Domnuit d'Houet (nee de Bengy) "Industria Sororum, Sociarum Fidelium Jesu," quæ mortuæ est in Paris, urbe metropolitana Galliarum, die quinta Aprilis, 1856, ætate annorum 16, otiæ ejusdem mensis, in coemeterio privato conventuali apud Gentilly, prope urbem parisiensem; tunc exhumatum et in Angliam translatum die decimaquarta Junii, 1904, in coemeterio privato eorumdem monialium apud Upton Hall, prope oppidum Birkenhead, in Comitatu Cestrie, retumulatum est.

Presentes sacerdotes fuerunt: Rev. Pater Ladislaus, qui corpus in ritibus sepulchris primis ad novam fideliter custodiat; Revdo. admodum Dominus Wilfridus Canonicus Dallow, qui corpus receptum nec non tumulum novum munivit, exequiasque reverenter perfunctus est, circa horam sextam pomeridianam hæc die decimaquarta Junii, 1904, testibus Revdo. admodum Dno. The Wise Mother

The day's duties over she rests in her chair,
And thinks of the doses that doctors prepare.
To her children when sick no doctor she'll bring;
She has proved beyond doubt "Abbey's Salt" is the thing.

ABBEY'S SALT is especially suited to children. It is made from fruit juices—contains no calomel, or other powerful drugs—and is pleasant to take. It is a tonic laxative—NOT a purge or violent cathartic. It may be taken every morning by children, as well as grown folk, without fear of ill-effects.

It corrects all the bowel troubles of childhood—prevents cramps—keeps the little ones fresh, rosy and healthy.
